

Poster

Generating test cases with the same abstraction level of 4th generation environments

by Federico Toledo — Abstracta

Federico Toledo is a founding partner of Abstracta, an Uruguayan company devoted to the testing of third-party software. Currently he is also a PhD student of computer science in the University of Castilla-La Mancha's Department of Information Systems and Technologies (Spain). His research is related to the automation of testing of information systems, and performance testing.